KEN KOSTICK
Announced as FESTIVAL PARADE MARSHAL
at the Toronto Ukrainian Festival in the Bloor West Village

(Toronto, ON) The Toronto Ukrainian Festival Organizing Committee is pleased to announce Celebrity Chef and Television Personality Ken Kostick as the Festival Parade Marshall for 2010. Mr. Kostick joins an impressive list of former parade marshals including businessman and philanthropist James Temerty, former Prime Minister the Right Honourable John Turner, and music legend Randy Bachman.

Son of a Ukrainian father whose parents moved from Ukraine to rural Manitoba in the 1930's, Ken Kostick has found marvelous success with his hit television series "What's for Dinner?" and "He Said, She Said with Ken and Mary Jo", now in its second season on the VIVA Network. In addition, Mr. Kostick's latest book, "The $10 Gourmet" is an excellent guide to providing creative and delicious gourmet meals on a tight budget.

Now entering its 14th year, the Toronto Ukrainian Festival continues to draw participants and event-goers from all over Canada and the world. Experience North America's largest Ukrainian street festival and celebrate Ukrainian art, music, food, and culture.
